

Director of Program and Community Development

It's seeking a competent and experienced professional to lead its program and community development activities to achieve SCOC's plans to expand on its intergenerational housing (two-thirds over age 60, one-third families and younger adults), transform its 25-person long-term care unit into a small house model, and strengthen relationships with allies in the geographic community as well as its supporting congregations. This position reports to the CEO and is a senior member of the management team. The ideal candidate will have experience in leading individualized person-directed program planning and implementation (a 'psycho-social' model) with individuals who may also have health support needs; engaging community involvement in programs and services; and successfully leading program and system change. Seven to 10 years of demonstrated leadership experience is essential; advanced degree in a related field preferred; proficient with technology including Microsoft Office Suite; and, demonstrated experience in working with funding agencies and governments preferred. Should possess effective communication skills, ability to lead a team and collaborate with peers, and have an appreciation for SCOC's Anabaptist faith, values and goals. Submit resume to Human Resources, St. Clair O'Connor Community, 2701 St. Clair Ave. E, Toronto, ON, M4B 1M5 or contact.

This posting will remain open until filled; Month/day/year, 11:59 pm is the deadline for the first round of applications collection.
